

Cardiology – Cardiac Pacemaker

Introduction

Welcome to the HHFT cardiology department.

The COVID-19 pandemic has meant that there are more people waiting for hospital appointments and treatment.

We know that it can be very difficult for many people who are waiting.

The NHS is working hard to see people as quickly as possible, but it is going to take a while before waiting times are back down to where they were before the COVID-19 pandemic began in the UK in early 2020.

Below, you will find some information that will help you to look after your health and wellbeing whilst you are waiting for your appointment.

Guidance for Patients

While waiting for your treatment it is important to remain healthy. Your cardiologist has asked that you have a pacemaker insertion arranged. Our booking team who will try to book you an appointment usually within 4 weeks.

You will receive a letter and more information about your appointment, as well as information of Covid19 testing required before the pacemaker appointment. Following insertion of the pacemaker you will be given an appointment for 6 weeks to attend a follow up review.

Pacemakers are small battery powered devices implanted into people who have been diagnosed as having bradycardia (a condition in the heart when it beats too slowly). The pacemaker is made up of small thin insulated wires which relay information about the heart's natural rhythm. If the rhythm is too slow, the pacemaker will deliver a small electrical impulse which produces a heartbeat.

You will be monitored throughout the procedure and receive a follow-up 6 weeks after implant (and then yearly following this) to check the device care and battery life.

While waiting for your appointment, it is also important to maintain a healthy lifestyle. To support our local residents to stop smoking or lose weight, the following services are available to provide free stop smoking and weight management support to our community.

- Sugar Smart is a campaign to raise awareness of hidden sugars, recommended levels and healthy alternatives by encouraging individuals, groups, businesses, schools and organisation to join the campaign and make a pledge. To find out how you can join in, become sugar smart and make good choices about what you, your family, colleagues eat.

What should I do if my health is deteriorating?

If your condition suddenly worsens whilst you are waiting you should seek advice.

Urgent Health Advice

For urgent health advice about physical or mental health, when it's not an emergency, please call 111 from any landline or mobile phone. You can also visit www.nhs.uk. The NHS 111 service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Life Threatening Emergencies

For something life threatening – severe bleeding, breathing difficulties or chest pains – please dial 999.

GP surgeries are still open

If you experience an increase in pain, inability to weight bear on this limb or a significant reduction in mobility, you should in the first instance contact your General Practitioner for review and advice.

GP surgeries are still open and are working differently to how they did before the COVID-19 pandemic. GP practices continue to make best use of telephone, online and video consultations. Face-to-face appointments are still being given to those who need it.

When you phone or use an online form to contact your GP surgery to make an appointment, you will be asked some questions which are designed to help staff guide you to the most appropriate clinical person to help you with your condition. This could be a nurse, clinical pharmacist, physician's associate, GP or paramedic.

A list of GP practices with relevant contact details are available on the following website:
