

Oral Surgery – Surgical Removal of Tooth

Introduction

Oral Surgery deals with the diagnosis and management of pathology of the mouth and jaws that requires surgical intervention. Oral Surgery involves the treatment of children, adolescents and adults, and the management of dentally anxious and medically complex patients.

Your consultant will discuss with you at your outpatient appointment if you require a tooth to be surgically removed.

Guidance for Patients

Whilst you are waiting for your surgical extraction depending on your oral needs, the following steps may vary. If your regular dentist cannot see you or you don't have a dentist, an emergency dentist (via 111) will do everything they can to help you the same or next day.

Many mild toothaches are caused by food caught between teeth. Before calling an emergency dentist, gently floss to remove any trapped food particles that could be causing pain and rinse with warm water.

If the toothache persists, call 111 as soon as possible and take over-the-counter pain relievers until your appointment. DO NOT put crushed aspirin on your tooth as this burns gums and destroys tooth enamel.

There are some numbing agents you can use to help alleviate pain until you see a dentist. Numbing agents with benzocaine should not be used for children or infant toothaches though.

If you experience tooth pain throughout the night, try to keep your head elevated. Keeping your head up can help ease the pain while you fall asleep and can make it less painful while you are awake.

Whilst you are waiting for their procedure, it is important to maintain a healthy lifestyle. A dental emergency can cover a broad range of complaints, including:

Severe dental pain – if you are in severe dental pain an emergency dental appointment could provide the necessary care to relieve your dental pain.

Uncontrolled Bleeding from the mouth – uncontrolled bleeding from the mouth is considered a dental emergency and you should see your dentist as soon as possible.

Infection – an abscess in the mouth is considered a dental emergency as a serious infection could be life-threatening. If you are experiencing swelling in or around your mouth or you have difficulty swallowing, you should speak to your dentist immediately.

You should contact a dentist if you are unsure about any of the above symptoms you are experiencing.
