

General Surgery – Hernia Repair

Introduction

General Surgery deal with the diagnosis and management of hernia related conditions that require surgical intervention. General Surgery involves the treatment of children, adolescents and adults, and the management of anxious and medically complex patients.

The Covid pandemic has had a significant impact on the NHS ability to provide routine elective services. We recognise that patients are waiting longer than we would all like and it is not always possible to identify when treatment will take place. This document provides you with information on how you can support yourself while waiting to attend the hospital.

Guidance for Patients

Whilst you are waiting for your surgical intervention, please avoid any heavy lifting or strenuous activities which can also put further strain on your hernia. These include lifting furniture, boxes, or other heavy objects. It's recommended that you get assistance lifting heavier items, especially if you have a larger hernia. Whilst you are waiting for your procedure, it is important to maintain a healthy lifestyle.

What should I do if my health is deteriorating?

You should go your nearest A&E straight away if you have a hernia and you develop any of the following symptoms:

- Sudden, severe pain
- Being sick
- Difficulty pooing or passing wind
- The hernia becomes firm or tender, or cannot be pushed back in

These symptoms could mean that either:

- the blood supply to a section of organ or tissue trapped in the hernia has become cut off (strangulation)
- a piece of bowel has entered the hernia and become blocked (obstruction)

A strangulated hernia and obstructed bowel are medical emergencies and need to be treated as soon as possible.

GP surgeries are still open

GP practice staff are also helping patients to manage their conditions at home while they wait for hospital appointments. GP surgeries are still open and are working differently to how they did before the COVID-19 pandemic and GP practices continue to make best use of telephone, online and video consultations. Face-to-face appointments are still being given to those who need it. When you phone or use an online form to contact your GP surgery to make an appointment, you will be asked some questions which are designed to help staff guide you to the most appropriate clinical person to help you with your condition. This could be a nurse, clinical pharmacist, physician's associate, GP or paramedic.
